commencing on WEDNESDAY, Nov. 19, 1856, and continuing from day to day on which occasion there will be offered a number of lots of various grades and lo-ations, suitable for persons of every degree.

The town of Emporium offers advantages to mechanics, business men and capitalists, unequaed at this time, by any location in the west; being situated upon a high buff bank of the Ohio, six miles above its confluence with the Mississippi, always accessible for the larger steamers, with an extremely productive country adjacent; having unlimited command of materials for every branch of manufactures, and a constantly increasing demand springing up in every direction around it for manufactured articles of every description. Commencing Wednesday, Nov. 19, 1856.

district, where the ground can be find at low rates, as also some fine business and manufacturing stands all of which will be sold to the highest bidder, without reserve.

No by-bidding will be allowed: every lot offered, on which a bid is made, will be sold; the Board of Directors reserving to themselves the privilege of discontinuing the sale, if, in their opinion, the interests of the company require it.

The head is a begin to the sold the sold the company require it.

The head the climate is mild and genial, being equally removed from the withering blasts of the north, and the word in its facilities for all mechanical and business operations, we may safely challenge any other location in the great valley of the Mississippi.

FRIDAY, - NOVEMBER 14, 1856.

The editor of the Journal is discoursing about frauds, and the necessity of preventing them, and his party are petitioning the Governor to call the legislature together to provide remedies. The State has just passed a verdict of con demnation upon the party that has control of the legislature, and their services are not wanted at Frankfort. When legislation is required to meet exigencies, the people will elect men to do the work. It is more importinence in a party that is condemned, to hurry their legislature to the Capitol when the people have condemned them at home. They want to exercise the little brief authority they have; being well aware that it is a last chance with them. They would like to get | ny reading since that event : together to make a registry law, as they profess, and attend to other business; such as electing a

United States Senator, in place of Thompson, to represent the State for six years.

The subject of a registry law has been discusse often, and its merits tried, and its demerits found out. No one has yet been framed that did not prove worse than the evil it was intended to rem-Bosides, the constitution of Kentucky fixes who shall vote, prescribes the qualifications, and the legislature have no power to add any other. You must alter the constitution of Kentucky before you can deprive a legal voter of the right of suffrage, because his name does not happen to be registered beforehand. The Know-Nothings had better read the organic law of the State before they hurry up to Frankfort to tamper with the elective franchise; for the benefit of a brokendown and condemned party. The legislature of this State has no power to say a man's name shall be registered before he can vote. But, if the legislature had the power, and should exercise it, it would not prevent frauds. Spurious names can be registered, and vagabonds can claim the names and vote under them. If a scoundrel can buy s spurious voter at the polls, get in his vote and escape, he can register a name for him before hand, and find the voter to vote under it. But the editor is greatly exercised about frauds, which he says have been committed. We are satisfied that frauds were committed in this city. We do not believe that the thirty-eight hundred Know Nothing votes of Louisville were legal. Ther were, perhaps, frauds in other localities; but they would not have been prevented by registry laws, nor by any other expedient that we have heard suggested. The convention that framed our new constitution, exercised all their ingenuity to pre vent frauds at elections. There was very little party feeling in the body; and the sixty days' residence in a precinct was adopted as the best plan they could invent. No registry of votes beforehand was proposed, and it is now too late to talk of it. If a white man over twenty-one has lived two years in the State, or one year in the county, and sixty days in his precinct, there is no power in the legislature to prevent his voting, if he be a citizen of the United States. The assertion of the editor that the Democrats committed fraud in this State, is like his numerous outgivings for the last year or more, and about as much t be relied on as a thousand other things he ha said. The people of Kentucky have before them the results, and can compare them with his posttive statements, his opinions, and his predictions. He was about as well informed about political movements then as he is about frauds now; and there is just as much truth in his assertion now as there was in his foretellings about the opinions and sentiments of the people of this country before the late election. His party will say his judgment is not worth a cent about anything. When he gives out that there were tre mendous frauds, they will naturally reply : so you told us there was a prodigious number of Fillmore votes in the country. He certainly knew as much about the latter as he knows now about the former. We see nothing at all remarkable about the results of this election. The Democrate have generally carried the States they claimed with a reasonable certainty; the Know-Nothings have come out as all cool and sensible men expected; even Fillmore men of any political information and sagacity got all they expected, with the exception, perhaps, of Kentucky; and this State has gone as any reasonable man might have expected. They claimed New York, but everybody outside of the Know-Nothing party knew that Fillmore wouldn't beat anybody in that State. The Fremont party has done better than we hoped they would; but not as well as all feared they might. Their success is not at all unaccount able. They had the aid of adventitious circum stances, that will hardly occur again in a lifetime They perpetrated frauds in some localities; that is a matter that will be proved: but these were the work of political knaves, and but partial. They owe their success, not to frauds upon the ballot-box, but to the industrious propagation of false issues; in the seal and energy with which they propagated a delusion. They have a good deal of material that could be worked up into political capital.

The plain fact is then, that if there were frauds in some localities, they have not affected the result. It is no more than just what men familiar with the sentiments of the country expected.

But what is the use of laws to protect the right of suffrage, when we cannot execute those we have? We have laws against obstructing the polis, but are they executed? We have laws against the partiality of judges of election, are

We need no more laws: let those we have h

executed, and there will be no reason to complain We want what the legislature can't supply—more citisens of respectability were driven from the honesty and patriotism. We want to be rid of a polls, and some, among others our kind-hearted and generous friend Mr. Irwin, the omnibus proparty that runs its party machinery into all the petty offices and business of the cities and counties. We want to be rid of a party in this State and particularly in this city, that seeks to mak party City Councils, party corporations, party public schools, &c. We need to be rid of a party that wants to substitute its discretion and selfishness for the laws and constitution of Kentucky. We want to be rid of a party that under Lakes to say who shall vote and who shall not: in spite of the constitution and the law. We want to be rid of a party that has the impudence to run to Frankfort to make laws for the State, right on the back of a public condemnation, just when the sentence of repudiation has been pronounced. There is more audacious impudence in the proposition than has ever met our eye before. W are beaten, condemned, say they; now let us run to Frankfort and exercise power whilst we have it, and before the people can take it away from us. There is a prospect that this is our las ace at the public crib, and let us hasten that we may bring in a bill for a registry law, and for

The project of constructing a submarin telegraph from this continent to Europe is under way, and there is little doubt of its accomplish ment in a twelvemonth. It is pronounced feasi ble by the best judges, and the stock necessary has been disposed of, or rather, has been applied for. Some of the New York papers are anticipa-ting the publication of dispatches from London in their daily issues, in a short time.

other purposes. We hope no Democratic mem ber of the legislature will obey any such impu erful than it is now. That is like the rest of his crasy notions. His judgment on that subject is about as good as his judgment about the pros-section Eight of the Constitution of Kentucky Respecting the Legislative Department.

Every free white male citizen, of the age of twenty-me year, who has resided in the State wey years, on n the county, town, or city in which he offers to vote one year next preceding the election, SHALL NE A FOTER: but such yeter shall hav been for sixy days ext preceding the election a resident of the prec n which he offers to vote; and he shall cast his n said precinct, and not elsewhere.

Now we should like to know if the legislature can add to or take away a single qualification here prescribed. If a man possesses the qualifies. tion here laid down, he shall be a veter, says the constitution. The constitution does not say his name shall be registered beforehand, nor can the legislature say it. The legislature might perhaps require a register to be kept for any purpose, but the citizen, with the qualification of age and residence, could vote, whether registered or not. The constitution has not left the power to prescribe the qualifications of voters to the legislature; and the call for a meeting of that body, to pass a registry law, is an impudent attempt to assume power that does not belong to the legislature. This desperate faction, however, would at tempt, for party advantage, to repeal the constitution itself.

The Cipcinnati Enquirer heard of a pretty good electioneering trick of a Democratic candi date for the Legislature, in the late election in in iana, which it thinks deserves a corner in the Knickerbocker or Harper's editorial chit chat. Tom Walpole, the candidate aliaded to, having been nominated by his party for the Legislature, sent to the nearest town and hired a cannon and a band of music, with which he started on his can-vass. Of course Tom's cannon made a good report and his music won the regards and confidence of the people. His opponent fearing the effects of these powerful aids, thought he might get some advantage over Tom by a public discussion, to which he invited him. Tom accepted the sion, to which he invited him. To maccepted the challenge, and by means of his artillery and music, succeeded in getting a large crowd to hear the two champions of the great political parties of the country. Tom had the opening.

He began by dwelling on the great importance of the next session of the Legislature, enumerating the various subjects which would come before it. He proceeded as follows:

He proceeded as follows:

Now to perform these multifarious duties suc-sossfully, it is needful that you should select a man of attainments -- a man versed in all the useful knowledge of the day. As a good patriot and citizen, feeling my own deficiency, I stand ready to decline in favor of my opponent, provided be can give better evidences of his qualifications than I pretend to; and, for the purpose of teeting his merits, I will proceed to put to him certain inter-rogations, which, if he answers correctly, I hereby pledge myself to withdraw in his favor. In case the gentleman is silent, I will take it as an admission that he is not able to answer. The what year was Indiana admitted to the Union? Tom then paused for some moments, and r ceiving no answer, he continued: From the gentleman's ellence, I presume that he does not know in what year Indiana was admitted into the Union. Is such a man fit to be your repesentative?

The crowd answered "No." "But," continued Tom, "I have another ques-tion to address to the gentleman. It is this: What is the amount of the county and State tax of Indiana?" of Indiana?"

Of course, there was no reply to this, and Tom arain asked if a man ignorant of so important a fact as that, was entitled to the vote of the peo-

Lastly, the pertinacious interrogator said be would conclude the exercises by asking the gen-tieman to give the latitude and longitude of the village in which he lived—an item of information which was not included in the Indiana politician's thesaurus: and he had, therefore, to submit to shesaurus: and he had, therefore, to submit to bear himself pronounced incompetent to perform the duties to which he aspired. And what was still more mortifying, be found himself, by a large majority, left at home to pursue his studies. The best of the joke was that his successful interrogator could not himself have answered any one of the questions which so puzzled the defeated candidate. The Fig. 2. didate. - Ky. Flag.

The Election Here.

Our readers in the country will require no com ments from us on the disgraceful proceedings which characterized the election here when they look at the vote cast, and observe that it exhibit a falling off from the actual number registered of &c. Some is exposed to the weather so as to be nearly one-fourth, and is, we are certain, but a little more, if that, then one half of the actual election strength of New Orleans. It is true that comparatively there was less bloodshed than is Some converted into material for paper makers comparatively there was less bloodshed than is Some converted into tow switchle for control. omparatively there was less of consider than is usual of late years, that is, the brass knuckles were more frequently, the knife less commonly, employed upon citizens who desired to vote the Democratic ticket, but the use of the first named convincing argument was common, and at two-thirds of the polls of the city, after an early hour of the morning, no adopted citizen, and but few native born, were permitted to deposit their suffrage in favor of Buchanan. The work of intimidation began early indeed before day break some fifty or sixty braves, mounted on horses and disguised as Indians, gal-loped through the unguarded streets, brandishing their bowie-knives and pistols, and hurraing like the savages whose habits and manners they very accurately imitated, for Fillmore, denouncing with death any one who should have the hardihood to approach the polls during the day to vote the Democratic ticket. Of course nobody expected protection from the police, and nobody was disap-pointed; they fulfilled the expectations of those from whom they derive their authority. Many prietor, and ex-Chief Justice Slidell, were brutally prietor, and ex-Chief Justice Slidell, were brutally knocked down when about to enter a Magazine street omnibus, after having voted.

That there should, notwithstanding all this, only be thirty-four hundred majority for Fillmore, is most astonishing, particularly, too, when it is borne in mind that the inspectors, clerks, and police were notorious as Know-Nothing partisans, and that the ballot-boxes were generally so placed as to be invisible to outside spectators, who were furthermore excluded from a sight of these new inquisitors by the arrangement made by the Common Council to secure for their party success by any means.

mon Council to secure for their party success by any means.

We do not pretend to enter into any particular detail of the diagnating features of this most revolting farce; it is not possible to imagine anything more anominable, iniquitous, or subversive of right, deceney, and justice; but we do say, that if this be Republicanism, may its end soon be witnessed.—True Delta, 6th.

AN IMPATIENT JURYMAN.—An Arkansas correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune give the following as authentic:
You are all fond of cracking jokes at the expense of Arkansas; now here is one on your State, absolutely true. I got it from an eye witness:
The District Court in one of your northern parishes was in session—'twas the first day of the court; time after dinner. Lawyers and others had dined and were sitting out before the hotel, and a long, lank, unsophisticated countryman came up and unceremonicusly made himself one of 'em, and remarked:
"Gentlemen, I wish you would go en with this ing out."

"Ah!" said one of the lawyers, "and pray, s "Ah!" said one of the lawyers, "and prsy, sir," what detains you at court?"

"Why, sir," said the countryman, "I am fotched here as a jury, and they say if I go home they will have to find me, and they mouth't do that as I live a good piece."

"What jury are you on?" asked the lawyer.

"What jury?"

"Yes, what jury. Grand or traverse jury?"

"Grand or travis jury? Dad-fetched if I know."

"Well," said the lawyer, "did the judge charge you?"

"Well, squire," said he, "the little fellow than site up in the pulpit and kinder bosses it over the crowd, gin us a talk, but I don't know thether manufacturers are making arrangements to sup- proud and gifted son. To you, friend Harney ply farmers next year with imported flaxseed, as the failure this year by drouth in this country driving him back to his Northern home. Long admission that he is not able to answer. The first question I have to sak the gentleman is, in what year was Indiana admitted to the Union?

Tom then paused for some moments, and report in the pause and the pau put in, we believe that very few got much more than the amount of seed sown. We presume that few farmers will be discouraged from their failure this season, as drouths are liable to occur at any time, destroying other crops besides flax. Oats were a failure too this year, but we do not suppose men will cease growing eats because they occasionally lose a crop by drouth. Flaxseed is considered a good paying crop, taking one year with another, averaging about ten bushels to the acre. There are few crops grown with less labor, and as it matures early, it is less liable to injury from drouth than many other liable to injury from drouth than many other crops. It is an excellent crop to pracede wheat, leaving the ground in excellent condition for that crops the ground in excellent crops the ground in excellent crops to prace the ground in excellent crops the ground in e

There is a prospect that ere long there may be a demand for the straw for manufacturing purposes. In the neighborhood of Dayton, Ohio, 110 Fourth Street, between Market and Jefferson, where immense quantities of flaxseed is produced, the straw brings from five to ten dollare per ton, depending upon condition. If out with a soythe it is tangled like hay, and is considered less valuable than when pulled and kept in bundles. The flax straw in Dayton is passed through a series of fluted rollers in the unrotted condition, and sold to the upholsters for stuffing hair cushions, come partially rotted, then passed through rollers Some converted into tow suitable for certain descriptions of cordage, and the better qualities are rotted, broken out and scutched for the east earn flax mills. It is now proposed to manufacture the flax, near where it is grown, into various kinds of coarse articles, to which it is adapted, and we believe that a company is now formed in this city for this purpose. We trust that many years may not pass before factories for manufacturing the flax fibre will be established in all the flax growing districts. A bushel of seed should be sown to the acre and the average product of straw is about one ton per acre, and seed about ten bushels. It has been demonstrated that flax is not an exhausting crop, but it should not be repeated too soon upon the same land, but should come in rotation with other crops, in which it should precede wheat. Oats is a much more exhausting crop than flax.

A pulling mashine has been used successfully in the State of New York, by which one horse pulls and spreads six acres of flax in a day. It is public property, the patent having expired, and it is said that the machine can be made for about sixt dollars. There is also another pulling machine advertised by a New York company, of which w

NEGLECTED PORTS OF AMERICA.

Of all things in the world, the most pleasant is the reputation of being fast. Pious eld ladies turn their eyes to heaven in holy herror. Old fogics look at their marriageable daughters, and, patting themselves a little slyly on the back, say, where too much like her father—she won't be she's too much like her father—she won't be caught by such trash—she knows the worth of such stuff. Little boys at their mothers' knees promise, in their innocent prattle, that they never, never will be like you. Prophets and prophecies are numerous, all coinciding entirely, until you, yourself, are struck with the singularity of the coincidence, and think that, perhaps, "you may spend the remnant of a life, grown miserable by orime, in the dusky recesses of a county jail," and so you reform.

If you are saught in any scrape, the requisite number of "I told you so's" are said, and you are forgotten until some other unlucky adventure causes your name to be remembered.

Not so with the flirt; no, worse than this—worse than having your name a by-word—is the reputa-tion of being a flirt; for you are never forgotten— never can you return to the walks of respectable -never can you enjoy that exquisite pleasure of having a true sweetheart.

You see a young lady that "you love with all the ardor of your impassioned nature;" you are seen on the street with her; more superfluous pity is shed over her than if you were a raging lion ready and willing to devour. A kind friend steps in, and, in a confidential whisper, informs her of your grand disposition and, to prove what a desyour oruel disposition, and, to prove what a desperate fellow you are, eites numerous instances in which gou have been "thrown," to show how erucity you have treated certain friends, femals, of

The friend meets you on the street and, in a hail-fellow-well-met tone, says: "So you're off with that girl, I heard." You put on your most killing puppy air, and with a smile say: "Yes, got tired of it:" for you don't want people to think you are jilted every time. But your smile is such as you give to a funny story whose point is hidden or you can't understand; besides, he heard it certainly he heard it—always knew he would—he always does.

Another kind friend, in a very patronizing patyou-on-the-head tone, says, Don't take it so hard —it will hurt for a day or two, but never mind it.
You reply in a very, braggadocio style, Yes, I suppose it will. Yes, you lying hypocrite, you know it will; it has been two weeks since you were jilted, and how do you feel now? The friend consoles you for a half an hour, you standing all the soles you for a half an hour, you standing all the time with the puppy air on your face, trying to fight it through; but all the time

"You feel a certain longing,
"Tis not like being sick,
But think you'd like amazing
To give him one good kick."

And woe be unto you if, by your actions or any thing at all, you show the wound; for if you do every young damsel who is just budding into womanhood thinks there is a good chance for her to show how she can finesse. And you, poor innocent, never can be brought to believe that these dove-like eyes could or would do you an injury, or that these long isshes or that those long lashes

"Are but to hide the sharpness of the hook;" are mighty easily took in. Thus you are tossed, or rather played, 'tip-cat' with till the players are tired. You then congratulate yourself that you will have pease and quiet. But not so; for you are 'button holed' by a friend who, with rather a left-handed sort of compliment, says, "Now, come, tell a fellow; you know all about such things; you've been in them before." You listen while he will have peace and quiet. But not so; for yo relates a story so much like some of your scrapes that you turn to look at him to see if he is no quizzing; but no, that face is too earnest for quiz, and beside, you are more firmly persuaded when you hear his anxious tones asking you to when you hear his anxious tones asking you tell him 'how to do.' After having lengthene your 'phis' to correspond with his, you tell a 'fel-lar how to do,' which means you give him advice that you wouldn't follow yourself, heartily curs-ing overything like flirts and flirtations.

remedy in the world for the cure of Rheumatism. Gout, Deafness. Pains in the Back, Breast, or Side, Palpitation of the Heart, Paralytic Stroke, Toothach, Headache, Cramps in the St mach, Scrofula, Frostet Eands or feet, Sore Eyes, Piles, Sprains or Bruises, Sores or Burns, Miffness in the Joints, Tetter or Sait Rheum, Neuralgia, Sore Breasts, or any diseases that are sore or painful, is the only article ever brought before the public that will do its work perfectly in from 3 to 30 minutes, has been used by thousands and pronounced to be the best remedy ever discovered. This Oil acts on the system with electricity, is of pure vegetable preparation, not the slightest danger of applying it outwardly or inwardly; it at once gives a permanent cure, in most cases, from ten to twenty minutes.

The best physiologists of Europe have discovered that all Organic Derangement in the animal system is the effect of an obstruction of the Physico-Electro Fluid in the organ diseased—a skillful application of this Oil puts in immediate motion the nerve fluid, and the cure is at once accomplished. No bleeding, no vomition, purging, or blistering, is restored to.

Death of an Old Citizen.

Willie Stewart departed this life yesterday morning. Although the sad event was not unlooked for, none who knew him well were prepared for the painful announcement. He sunk under the influence of severe and protracted affliction, which he bore with fortitude and patience, ylelding his spirit away at 6 o'clock yes terday morning.

Mr. Stewart was in the fifty-ninth year of his age, and died here in the county of his birth. In earlier life, he embarked largely, and with an energy characteristic of few men, in mercantile pursuits. A reverse of fortune and a decline of health, at a later period, influenced him somewhat from more active business life; but he ever retained a taste for the stirring walks of trade. His latest business connections were the Presidency of the Kentucky Mutual Insurance tucky stands fully redeemed. Company, and an important relation with the Texas Land and Emigration Company. We are Temple; for it was he who conceived the project, and took the first active steps toward the enterprise. He was much respected and beloved by his brethren of the Masonic Order, of which he was a prominent member. In earlier days, he was devoted to the political principles of his party and, as in every other department of life, he was uncompromising and unbending from his convic- day. tions of right. He never permitted his political tastes, however, to disturb his social relations.

The deceased was the father of fourteen chil dren, ten of whom had preceded him to that "undiscovered country, from whose bourn no traveler returns." A wife and four children and a large relationship mourn his loss. His funeral will take place at 10 o'ciock on Sunday morning next, and will be attended by the Masonic fraternity inently successful. This success is as much to be escredited to the management as to the generosity of our people. We have seldom if ever witnessed equal gratification ovinced at an amateur entertainment. We must be pardoned if we particularise somewhat: premising that the fair and callant performers volunteered their services as a means of public charity, and not as a source of personal praise. Our musical friends are familiar pleasing Miss Montgomery gives excellent promise as a vocalist. The Star of Love, one of Wallace's songs, was most beautifully sung by Miss Whitman. Miss Wright was very successful in a familiar but difficult piece by Mendelsshon. Miss Carter, Peasely, Pirtle, Griffin, and Parker were greated respectively with bouquets and applause to the coho." We remember with pleasure the the rendering of "Comin' Through the Rye" by a gifted little miss.

The Concert for the Poor. The concert at Mozart Hall last evening was em

The gentlemen amateurs deserve little credit for their songs and performances last evening, when we remember that they are accomplished musicians. The names of Peters, Zoller, Shuler, Whipple, Hull, and so on, are sacred in the musisal world, and they are all embalmed in the memcries of all lovers of sweet song and skillful performance who have heard them.

DANGER OF WEARING HOOPS IN A HIGH WIND. REVIEW OF THE MARKET. During the wind on Saturday afternoon, and while the dust was circulating so thick that no one could see more than the length of an eyelash in front, a lady, dressed in the most elegant style, in coming round one of the corners, was lifted off her feet by the force of the wind acting on the great expanse of surface which she presented to it. The wind unfortunately did not set her down in the same position in which she was before being taken up that turning her centile on one side it laid up, but turning her gently en one side, it laid her endwise on the sidewalk, where she com-menced a series of astonishing gyrations, rolling over and over on the hoops of the skirts, and ex-hibiting a species of learner which is not yet hibiting a species of locomotion which is not yet generally appreciated, and which may come into fashion with high winds and large circles of light material. As the lady thus rolled over and over material. As the lady thus rolled over and over, several persons were knocked down and passed over by the lady and the hoops, without ever knowing that anything had bent them. Fortunately for the lady, the dust and the astonishment of the people out of doers permitted but a few to witness this new method of getting along in a stiff breezs, and keeping up full sail at the same time. As we came around a corner, we found the lady wedged between a lamp post and a hydrant, and immediately assisted her to an upright instead of a recumbent position.
